

Comrades 2022 Finishers Programme by Lindsey Parry – Official coach of the Comrades Marathon Association:

Part 2 of your Comrades Journey starts now. Some of you may have been ready to run a Marathon in 2021 or earlier this year, while many of you are still needing to qualify. The principles of this programme remain the same, to finish Comrades you must build up slowly, become consistent and remain healthy/injury free.

The eccentric load (pounding) on your legs is extremely high, to help prepare for this, strength training is highly recommended for the down run. Strength training is important for both directions, but I feel non-negotiable for the down run.

The earlier you start with your strength programme, the sooner you will be used to the added work and the lower the impact will be on your programme. My suggestion is to do your strength training on 2 of your 3 rest days in the week, leaving at least 1 full day between each gym session. If you have not yet started strength training and have 30min 1-2 times per week then start NOW

Who should follow this programme?

- Comrades' finishers
- Comrades Novices who can run a half Marathon in close to 2hrs30
- Comrades Novices who have come close to/or have broken 5hrs for a Marathon

DO NOT follow other programmes for faster medals thinking that the extra mileage will guarantee a finish. The biggest single threat to you finishing Comrades is getting injured. Place a premium on recovery and ensuring this through following the appropriately designed programme for you.

This programme is time based so people of more experience and greater running ability will get relatively more out of the programme and progress faster. Time based programs also prevent you from settling on a route that you need to run faster every time you do it. It is easier to maintain discipline and run easy on the easy days. I must again emphasise here that being injury free and consistent in your training is the key to a successful race, easy days are there to ensure full recovery, so you can get the most out of everyday training.

The aim is to run a sub 4:50 marathon before Comrades. We will aim to qualify in April/May, however you will have until July to do so, so do not panic if it does not work out at the first attempt.

There are recovery weeks built into the programme every 4 weeks, do not be tempted to do more as this will only compromise you later in the programme, leading to injury, illness and under performance in goal races.

Training days are interchangeable, if your club has Time Trials (TT) on a Tuesday or Wednesday you can swap Thursday with one of these days.

The programme is written for a late February to early March marathon. If this does not fit into the available marathons in your area and you cannot travel to a marathon, you can shift the marathon a week or 2 earlier or later as required.

For the dates of races in your area you can go to www.runnersguide.co.za for a full fixture list.

Training Paces:

Easy (E): 7:00-7:30/km
 Long (L): 7:10-7:40/km
 Recovery (rec): 7:30-8:00/km

These paces are a guide for someone who is training for a 4:50 Marathon, aim to run at or around these paces taking note of how easily you recover.

Enjoy the training!
