

Terms of use for electronic participation at the 2024 CMA Annual General Meeting:

Please note that the following terms and conditions will apply to any Member who elects to participate in the Annual General Meeting by way of electronic communication:

The costs associated with a Member participating in the AGM by electronic means shall be for the Member's own account. In this regard such cost will be billed separately by the Member's own service provider.

The CMA will use its best reasonable endeavours to ensure that the electronic communication system used by it to allow electronic participation at the AGM will function properly.

The Member however acknowledges that the electronic communication system can, for a variety of reasons and causes, be vulnerable to a partial or complete failure. For this reason, the CMA does not warrant or guarantee that the electronic communication system will in fact function properly during the AGM.

For the foregoing reasons the election by a Member to attend the AGM using the electronic communication system is subject to the condition that such Member waives any claim that he/she may have against the CMA for any loss, damage, or claim (including, but not limited to, consequential damage) that may be suffered by him/her arising from the use of such system. Such waiver will apply regardless of whether or not the problem is caused by any act or omission on the part of the CMA (including its agents, employees and contractors) or any third party.